

ANZAC Day 2017

Washington DC

Each year on the 25th of April, Australians and New Zealanders commemorate ANZAC (Australian and New Zealand Army Corps) Day to recognise the sacrifices that Australians and New Zealand servicemen and servicewomen have made – not only in defending their country, but in upholding their nations' longstanding commitment to peace and security.

To mark this special occasion the Australian and New Zealand Embassies are co-hosting a program of events. All events are open to the public.
